FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT THE §1031 EXCHANGE

How Can a §1031 Exchange Benefit You?

The 1031 exchange process allows owners of investment property to diversify their real estate assets. An investor can choose to sell a small investment property for a larger property or vice versa. Investment property owners also have the option to exchange one property for several properties or merge several properties into one. Investors can achieve geographical diversity by exchanging their real estate holdings anywhere in the United States. There are many choices and opportunities available and Vesta will help find the best fit for you.

What are the Advantages of a 1031 Exchange?

- Tax Savings: A 1031 exchange allows you to exchange your property for another and defer the payment of federal and state capital gains taxes. This allows you to preserve your hard-earned equity and in effect, reinvest the tax you owe as an interest-free, no-term loan from the government.
- Income: You can increase cash flow. An example of this would be exchanging out of bare land and into an income producing property.
- Leverage: The investor who intends to own real property would naturally want to use all of their equity from the sale of investment property to acquire replacement investment property. The 1031 exchange helps you build wealth more rapidly by allowing you to use all of your equity rather than losing a portion through taxes.
- Diversification: A 1031 exchange opens doors for diversification. One can achieve geographical diversity by exchanging into investment properties in different regions of the country. Another alternative for diversification is acquiring a different property type, such as exchanging some of your single family residential units to a retail strip center.
- Management Relief: Many investors often accumulate several single family residences over the years. As a result, they may find themselves in a management-intensive and time consuming situation. The 1031 exchange provides a viable solution by allowing you to exchange these smaller properties for one larger property.

- Co-Ownerships: Through an exchange, you could divest yourself of problem co-ownerships by exchanging joint interests for sole interests in separate properties.

Time Periods:

As with any real estate investment transaction, there are important rules you must follow. In a 1031 exchange, there are specific time periods in which certain elements of the exchange must be completed. This is where the benefit of having a trusted advisor makes a world of a difference. Your Vesta advisor will carefully and personally guide you through the specific deadlines, resulting in a seamless transaction.

- 45 Day Time Period: An exchanger has 45 calendar days from the close of escrow on the relinquished property to identify up to three investment properties. Certain restrictions apply if an exchanger would like to identify more than three properties and they should first contact Vesta for details
- How to Identify Exchange Property: An exchanger formally identifies replacement property by submitting a written form to Vesta indicating each property they intend to purchase. This form can be mailed, hand delivered, or faxed to Vesta's office. The exchanger may also choose to identify additional properties that they would consider to be in "back up" position.
- 180 Day Time Period: Once the 45-day time period has lapsed, the exchanger has an additional 135 days to close on any and all replacement properties. The combined 45 days to identify and an additional 135 days to close constitute a total of 180 days to complete an exchange transaction.

Please take note that if you close escrow on the sale of your investment property after October 15th, you will need to file a tax extension to use the full 180 day benefit.*
